

COVID-19 UPDATE

As an online business, we're fortunate that we're able to continue operating. We are following rules on distance and hygiene, and our couriers are operating a contactless service. We feel very fortunate that we can continue to send care packages on behalf of our customers and pay our (frankly brilliant) team without government funds.

If at any point we have to pause taking orders to ensure we can fulfil those in the system safely before receiving any more, we will keep you updated by clearly communicating across the website. We will also communicate this across our social channels.

Thank you for your continued support and we hope we all come out of the other side of this and can be together again soon. If you have any queries, please email us on info@dontbuyherflowers.com
